Irvine Drive Residents to Fight Renaming of Street to Rheem Blvd.

Residents of Irvine Drive have decided to fight the renaming of their street to "Rheem Boulevard," N. S. Dodge Jr., president of the Glorietta Improvement Association, said today.

The people on Irvine Drive are "quite bitter" that the Board of Supervisors acted in favor of Donald Rheem's petition to change the name of the street over the protest of the residents, he said.

Dodge said the residents are trying to arrange a meeting with Rheem to discuss the problem.

In a statement to the SUN, Dodge said, "Although it has not yet been possible to meet with Mr. Rheem personally, even though several attempts have been made, we are hopeful that we can get together with him at an early date to adjust this matter."

"Property owners on this street, some of whom have lived her for more than nine years, are unanimous in their wish to keep the name Irvine Drive in honor of James Irvine, late president of the Moraga Company and pioneer Contra Costa developer," Dodge concluded.

Orinda Association Hears Proposal for Orinda Auditorium

The Board of Directors was presented the idea of a civic auditorium for Orinda at its last meeting August 16. (See adjoining story.)

Andy Blalock outlined the proposal to the directors. The Board discussed the plan at length, reviewing the pros and cons.

Blalock, editor of the association's newspaper, said that the directors viewed the idea favorably, but the major obstacle was, of course, financing the venture.

The Board was of the opinion that the funds couldn't be raised at this time without more public sentiment in its favor, Blalock said.

No action was taken on the proposal.

Golf Tournament Starts at Club

The Orinda Country Club four-ball golf foursome, which started last Saturday, was off to a fast start with four teams eliminated in the first playoffs.

The finals will be Saturday with the remaining four teams battling for the top spot and the prizes.

The remaining teams are: Kit Davis and Stan Worthington vs. Ed Foley and Jim GeArmond; Ed Loustalot and Don Doten vs. Bill McNevin and Fran Watson. The second flight of teams that will compete in the afternoon are Pete Hugo and Perry Stapleton vs. Perry Thomas and Wally Marsh.

COURSE IN COLOR

A course in color will be given by Susan Kagel at the home of Mrs. Clay Sorrick. The ten week course starts on September 21. Mrs. Sorrick lives on Hacienda Road.

P. T. and T. Engineers Explain Proposed Plan for Area-Wide Extended Service

Engineers of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company last Monday in Lafayette presented their plan for improved service in the Orinda-Lafayette-Walnut Creek area and asked the opinion of local organizations.

The plan, in brief, is as follows:

1. All phones in the area will be converted to extended service, and will be able to call the exchanges contiguous to it at no charge. (This will include four-party and suburban lines which at present are unable to secure extended service.) Lafayette's contiguous exchanges, for example, are Orinda, Moraga and Walnut Creek.

2. Direct dialing between adjoining towns will be available, thus eliminating the call to operator. For example, Orinda resident may dial a Lafayette number.

3. For phone subscribers not now having extended service there will be a small extra charge: For one party residential phones, 50c per month extra; for all other residential phones, 25c per month extra; for business phones, $1 extra. (It now costs 10 cents to call an adjoining exchange.)

$13,000 SAVING

Richard Wood, Pacific Coast Division Engineer, explained that there would be a saving to the area of $13,000 a year in toll charges. Toll revenue is now about $41,000. The new revenue from additional extended service subscribers would total about $28,000, thus leaving a net gain of $13,000, Wood said.

He stated the phone company would save approximately that amount by reducing its bookkeeping and other staff expenses.

Wood said that the plan covers the entire area by extended service. The basic service would include it without each subscriber signing up.

The SUN learned last week that the telephone company has discussed this informally with the State Utilities Commission.

UTILITIES COMMISSION

Wood stated that the Company is seeking the opinion of representatives in the communities concerned and if the communities want the new service, then a formal application will be made to the Utilities Commission.

Hearings will then be held by the Commission, probably in Lafayette, the engineer added.

"If the Utilities Commission decides that it is for the good of the communities, then the Company will effect the plan," Wood stated.

At the meeting in the office of the Little Chapel in the Valley were Wood, Harold Hueter, telephone engineer from the San Francisco-Coast office, and Bill Attex, staff assistant in the Richmond district office. The local committee in attendance were Dr. Joseph Vizzard, Don Blackwood, Dr. Joseph Lorber, Herman Silverman and Harold McCrum.

The members of the group expressed satisfaction that the proposal would be to the advantage of the communities, but stated that they must check with their respective organizations.

OBJECTION

McCrum, president of the Lafayette Improvement and Happy Valley Improvement associations, pointed out that some subscribers would object to paying more because they do not make calls to adjoining towns.

All the local representatives expressed disappointment that the plan did not call for offering extended service into the East Bay from Lafayette and Walnut Creek. Orinda extended service already includes certain exchanges to Oakland and Berkeley.

Wood said the company decided that this was "not feasible now."

Reporter Calls Orinda Classiest Bedroom Town

Here are reporter Bob Lynne's observations on Orinda published in a series of articles in the Martinez Contra Costa Gazette. The series reports growth in the communities of central Contra Costa County.

Orinda, on what local restaurateurs like to call the "tunnel strip" is by far the classiest bedroom town in Contra Costa County.

And it's almost all bedroom. As one resident remarked yesterday, "The people of Orinda have to work out of town. There's nothing to do here."

ABOVE AVERAGE

Orinda, where the average new home costs between $20,000 and $25,000, far above the average for Lafayette and points east, is the location of that longed-for house in the country for more and more San Francisco and Oakland businessmen.

Climate and elbow room seem to be the main attractions, unless you're interested in living on a hill so you can look down over the valley while you eat breakfast. The climate seemingly is wonderful. At least an Oakland woman told a local real estate broker so on one of the worst days recently.

New homes in new subdivisions are going up on both sides of the crossroads at the rate of better than one a day. An estimated four or five hundred will be built within the next year.

LARGE GROWTH

And the Orinda population, growing at the rate of more than 150 a month, now stands at 3,500 according to a post office estimate.

One of the largest new subdivisions in the area is a 650-acre affair called Sleepy Hollow. On the old Rheem estate, Sleepy Hollow offers 350 homesites of up to three acres in size. Streets are being bulldozed into hundreds of other acres both north and south of the crossroads.

Extremely high building restrictions keep virtually all homes in the $15,000-$40,000 bracket. Many families from Piedmont are moving out here, J. W. Loop, manager of the Clyde O. Sweet office, noted.

MORAGA'S FUTURE

Although there isn't much building as far south as Moraga, that town is sure to be a "hot spot" if a proposed new tunnel is pushed through, Loop said.

After such growing pains as Orinda has experienced, there is a movement afoot to start a new high school near the crossroads. Ground is being prepared for a new grammar school; the present school run double shifts last year.

An Orinda shopping district, meanwhile, is almost zoned out of the picture. There are only a few commercial lots as yet unoccupied, Loop noted. Commercial building sites at the crossroads are consequently sky high. Lots are quoted at from $500 to $600 a front foot.

The people "want to keep it more like country," Loop explained. W. J. Boies, another broker, believes the few hundred feet of business frontage left will soon be filled with high class shops.

OFFICE SHORTAGE

M. A. Murphy, whose office is portable so that it can be moved off the fancy lot it now occupies, called the shortage of office space "terrific."

Water connections for commercial buildings have been hard to come by without sewers. With the new trunk sewer going in now, development should liven up, however.

A store building? "I could rent one out in 48 hours," said Fred T. Wood, who has seen Orinda grow up from a "gopher hole."

Wood is something of a pioneer resident of Orinda—he's been here since 1936. In ten years Wood has subdivided some 700 acres near the crossroads; on this property there is now $3,500,000 worth of new homes.

Infantile Paralysis Strikes at Two Boys In Lafayette, One Died Tues. Morning

Two cases of Infantile Paralysis were reported in Lafayette Tuesday according to the County Health Department.

Brian Holt, 5½ years old, had his onset Sunday and died in a San Francisco hospital Tuesday. The other case, Gordon Holt, a brother of the first child, is 3½ years old, had his onset Monday and is now in a San Francisco hospital. Both children have recently visited in San Joaquin Valley.

ON INCREASE

"Infantile Paralysis has been steadily on the increase in California during the past few weeks. It has not yet reached the epidemic stage in Contra Costa County. Since January 1st, 1948, there has been a total of only 12 cases including the two in Lafayette," W. A. Powell, county health officer, said.

One case in Walnut Creek was reported last week.

The Health Officer advises, parents not to become excited. He presented the following known facts about Polio:

1. That fly control does not seem to affect the spread of Polio.

2. That swimming pools which meet Health Department requirements have not been proven to be a factor in the spread of the disease. However, children should not be allowed to over-exercise as it is believed that excessive fatigue does seem to make one more liable to develop the disease.

3. Avoid chilling.

4. Keep clean. Wash hands before eating.

5. Avoid crowds.

6. Watch your children and if any signs of illness appear, call a physician promptly. Early symptoms of the disease are headache and stiffness of neck and back, some fever, occasionally nausea, and some have pain in the muscles.

The Health Officer states that the public will be kept fully informed on the Polio situation.

"Remember, even in an epidemic area only one person in a thousand will contract Polio, and that the fear of Polio in the general public is out of all proportions to the actual danger of infection," he concluded.

BOOKLET AVAILABLE

Available at the office of the Lafayette Sun in Lafayette and the Orinda Sun office in Worden's Travel Agency in Orinda are booklets, free to anyone desiring them. It is entitled, "A Message to Parents about Infantile Paralysis." The booklets, published by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, were made available by the county health department.

George Brockhurst . . . Grand Old Man of Orinda

By CARRIE L. BROWN

As a young man George farmed for J. O. Miner who had come to Orinda in the early eighties and bought 612 acres. When Miner died, Brockhurst bought from Miner's sister 204 acres, now, Sleepy Hollow.

He married Bertha Hanson of San Francisco who had two small children, James and Bernice. They lived in the old Miner house that had 13 rooms and windows that had come around the Horn.

A NEW HOME
Later George built a new home. They had a beautiful picnic ground under the great trees where Clyde Sweet now has his Sleepy Hollow real estate office. Tarry Road now passes the spring where the Brockhurst horses used to drink.

Like other Orinda farmers, George sold his hay and grain to livery stables and feed stores in Berkeley and Oakland. The four and six horse teams pulled their loads over the hills to Berkeley by the Wild Cat Canyon Road and down Spruce Street hill.

The pull to Oakland was over the Fish Ranch Road and then down Claremont. George also hauled lumber and worked with his teams on the roads. George remembers once driving a heavy load with a six horse team through the old tunnel.

IN THE TUNNEL
In some way the horses got

tangled up and it was some time before he could get them straightened out in the dark tunnel. Not being a smoker he had no matches to help out. But he succeeded by instinct and feeling.

As the Water Company bought out the land of the farmers, Mt. Pleasant School and the first Orinda school were given up, and the present Orinda School was established by uniting with the Glor-ietta district and hence was called a union school.

Mr. Brockhurst was school trustee for 21 years. This was a tough job as it meant in addition to the troubles of all school trustees, he had to haul all the supplies and new equipment from Oakland. When he resigned, the Board of Trustees, in appreciation of his long and faithful service, presented him on June 6, 1939 a silver plate appropriately inscribed.

The Brockhursts sold their Sleepy Hollow farm in 1925 to Kaar and Goodin, and bought their present home on El Toyonal. Of his family, there remain Edward Brockhurst of Moraga, Ben Brockhurst of Walnut Creek, James Brockhurst of Berkeley, and his sister Annie, wife of Dr. Sparhawk of Lafayette.

OLD FRIENDS
Among George's old friends of the farming era and the horse and buggy days and still living in Orinda or near by are Louise Rowland, Jim Kern, the Oakleys, the McVehs, the Palmers, the Simons, the Sullivans, and the Telch-ers. The oldest house to remind him of those days, is the 100-year old farm house of Martinez which still stands close to Bob Feary's Berinda Hereford Cattle ranch.

With the same skill he drove his sixhorse teams George now drives his six cylinder car over the old Bear Creek Road or over our modern highways.

Preliminary Floor Plan Being Drawn As Backers Tell of Need for Building

Discussion of a proposed Civic auditorium for Orinda gained momentum this week with the announcement that rough preliminary floor plans are being worked on.

Mike Murphy and Andy Blalock, spearheads of the present plan, said they have asked architect Wayne Littlejohn to prepare preliminary sketches of the floor plan of an auditorium.

The proposed auditorium would serve as a community house to serve all the organizations in Orinda, Murphy and Blalock explained. The logical site is the Community Center, they point out.

COUNTRY CLUB, PARK POOL SWIMMERS Ready for Contest

Last-minute practice sessions are in order today and tomorrow as the swimming teams of the Orinda Park Pool and Country Club get set to hit the water in the third annual inter-pool swimming races Sunday at 2:30 at the Country Club Pool.

Rivalry is keener than ever this year as each team now has one win to its credit. Last year the Park Pool won in a dramatic race. The Country Club swimmers led up until the final contest, but lost the meet by several points.

Supporters of both teams are confident of victory and one thing is certain . . . it'll be a good show. At press time, the Country Club team's roster was incomplete, but the following have won places on the squad:

BOYS' TEAM: back-stroke for 6 and 7 year olds, Jim Carter, Tommy White, Tim Maloney; back-stroke for 8 and 9 year olds, Joe Altieri and George Harrison.

In the 10 and 11 year old back-stroke, Tom Klements, Jim Sweet and Phil Wood; free-style 6 and 7 years is the same as the back stroke; the 8 and 9 year old class for the free-style is the same as the corresponding backstroke with addition of Wade Wallace. The 10 and 11 year free-style, Tom Klements, Jim Sweet and Stanley Pitkin.

COUNTRY CLUB GIRLS' TEAM: Still incomplete. The selections so far are from 6 to 7 free-style and back-stroke, Nancy Veitch and Mary MacFarland; back and free-style in the 8 and 9 class, Elizabeth Hart and Gail Dinwiddie; the 10 and 11 year old in the back stroke are Barbara Starks, Cora Prifoid and Heather Ambler; and 10 and 11 free-style, Barbara Starks, Lennie Lamb and Cora Prifoid.

The Park Pool teams list of entrants is complete, according to Coach Bell. The lists are as follows:
Boys back stroke and free style, 6 and 7 year olds, Mark Littlejohn, Bruce Goldstone, Bob Bailey. Girl in the same class, Sherry Elder and Ginny Matey, alternates, Heidi Von Guenther, Susan Freedman and Judy Courtright.

Boys back stroke and free style, 8 and 9 year, Bill Broderick, Duval Montague and Tom Hannon. The girls in the same class, Susan Salbach and Georganne Watkins, alternates, Patty Courtright and Judy Miner. Back stroke and free style for 10 and 11 boys, John Spiegel, Richard Cory and Rodger Dexter. The girls in the same class, Rae Littlejohn, Sally Freedman and Sally Pedder.

The 12 and 13 year olds in both classes for boys, Jim Watkins and Jerry Vurek; alternates, Skip Saville and Tom Morrish. In the corresponding girls' class, Anne Ward, Julia Dunn and Mary Ann Lucas. The 14 and 15 year boys, Several weeks ago Blalock, Littlejohn and Vance Reynolds interviewed experts of the Banner Play Bureau in San Francisco, to secure detailed information on construction of an auditorium. Officials of this bureau serve as advisors for building auditoriums throughout California.

Captain Sandford Sez:

Head-on collision at Upper Happy Valley Road and State Highway recently. Looked like straight nit-wit stuff. I said recently regarding many drivers that half a peanut shell would provide and excellent Panama hat for most of them. You'll pardon me please . . . not one-half . . . one-eighth

We shall soon have some new business establishments in Lafayette. They will be close to the Post Office, a valuable location. However, the Post Office will not always be there and as merchandizing competition becomes keener the competent sincere and capable merchants will succeed and remain, and the others will be wiped out.

The other day my horse was as mad as a wet hen. A red-headed girl promised him a carrot if he would stop by and see her. He stopped by, no carrot. I'd be darned mad too, wouldn't you?

Looks like the new sewer system will be serving some areas of Lafayette early in 1949, for which I sez, "Hurrah!"

As I sat at lunch in a restaurant on Sunday, two beautiful little girls . . . twins . . . came to my table and asked me if I was a cowboy. I told them, "No, but I do have horses." They returned to their daddy, and one came back with the next question. "Do you ever shoot any cattle rustlers?" I answered, "A few; and a few rustler-real-estate-broker combinations." After returning to their dad they both came again with a new question. Had I got a gun? When I said I had, they wanted to know how many notches on its butt . . . I told them "thirty seven". Well, well . . . this seemed to create quite an impression, and when they left I felt so heroic and ferocious that I darn near bit my own hand.

Good-bye now.

Petition to Bus Line Gets Action

A petition requesting better service of the Greyhound lines was acted upon by the company, improving the situation for commuters coming home from San Francisco to Contra Costa County.

The Contra Costa Commuters Association wrote a letter to the Pacific Greyhound Lines in May complaining that the company had failed to meet the needs incident to the phenomenal expansion of the population of the county and requesting rescheduling of certain rush hour buses.

The petition was submitted after research by regular riders. According to the petition, commuters usually had to wait in line at the Second and Folsom Street stop in San Francisco while buses loaded and left without taking those at the rear of the waiting line.

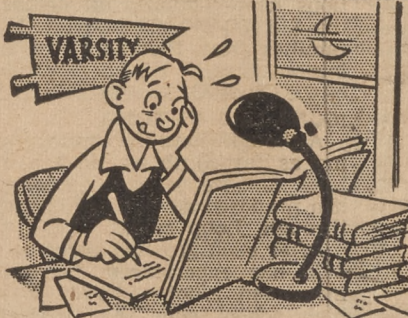

On June 21, buses were rescheduled so that they would come five to seven minutes earlier. The lines, therefore, did not have a chance to become so long. Frank Brigham, member of the group stated that service has generally improved.

Roger Souza Writes About Strange And Interesting European Customs

By ROGER SOUZA

(Recently returned from a tour of Western Europe.)

In France, when one goes to the Theatre, it's customary to tip the usher who escorts you to your seat. Should you overlook this custom you will be asked to step outside where you will be politely asked for a tip.

Before the curtain rises you will hear three thumps on the floor — to get ready. A few minutes later you will hear three more knocks — the house lights dim. Then the final three thumps — on the second the Orchestra Leader raises his baton, on the third the play begins. This same procedure follows the intermission.

WOMEN DO HEAVY WORK

In most countries women are practically slaves — with very little home life. They work in the homes, in the fields. They raise their families and have little time to enjoy life. If a family goes out for an outing the woman walks, leading the mule, while her husband and children ride. It's nothing to see a woman carry 12 chairs on her head at one time trudging down the road or in the city, while her husband follows directing the operation empty handed.

In hotels you asked the Porter to carry your bags downstairs and he will get some old woman to do the job. Most women don't wear any headgear, as only ladies wear hats. And ladies don't lift a finger to do anything. Women don't participate in voting and have little opportunity for education unless they are of the upper class. They have no opportunity to choose their mates as the parents arrange this by custom.

MARRIAGE JOKE

In Spain, yours truly, was nearly involved in an International Situation over this custom.

On a train from Barcelona to Madrid, one of the noble spaniards and his Padre, suggested to my mother; a marriage between his daughter and this writer. My mother thought it was a good joke and always willing to go along on a joke consented. When I returned and was informed and saw that the man was dead serious I tried to be diplomatic and laugh the thing off. Fortunately, the Good Padre came to my rescue and talked his patron out of the idea.

MAKES GET-AWAY

For the rest of the trip we were looked down upon for welshing on a bargain. I can just see myself being greeted at the depot by some sweet thing in a sombrero. And in General Franco's sweet protecting arms, no wonder I left Spain as soon as possible.

All Europe thrives on pageantry and traditions. To Americans the pomp is superficial and taken as a spectacle of the moment. Therefore, it adds insults to the pious Europeans, and we are classed as barbarians, lacking in appreciation of the finer arts. However, the life of a Barbarian in this case is more fascinating, stimulating, and down to earth; providing real enjoyment of life.

Citizens Obtain 846 Signatures For Hospital Plan

County Clerk Walter A. Paasch assured the Central Contra Costa Hospital Association that enough signatures had been secured to place the organization's proposed hospital plan on the November ballot. 846 signatures were necessary. A re-check will be made shortly.

Local observers declared that it was almost impossible to obtain enough signatures of registered voters during the three days that the association had to put the proposition on the November ballot.

But this was accomplished by public-spirited citizens who put their own affairs aside for two days, according to Neil Cornwall, a member of the board of directors.

Care for scorched Walnut Leaves

Salt and boron injury is beginning to show up now in Contra Costa walnut orchards.

Assistant Farm Advisor A. M. Goff suggests that you take a close look at the leaves on your trees. If the leaves show scorch around the margins and tip burn then your trees may be getting an excess of salt from "alkali" soil or poor quality irrigation water. If the burning extends up between the veins of the leaves then slightly too much boron may be causing the firing. Often both salt and boron may be showing up as double trouble.

The farm advisor's office at Cowell should be consulted if your walnut trees are suffering from salt and boron injury.

Your Garden IN LAFAYETTE AND ORINDA

BY CONSTANCE HANSEN

The premium list for the coming Contra Costa County Flower Show, to be held at Antioch September 24, 25, and 26, came in last week.

The show is being put on under the auspices of the 23rd district agricultural association of the state of California, and Frank L. King of Lafayette is one of the directors. Harry Nelson of San Francisco Junior College is the manager, and from the ground plan, or layout, which he showed me recently, it is to be quite an ambitious affair.

The prizes are substantial, and the entry classes many and varied, covering all things horticultural which would be in season at this time, as well as model garden areas and flower arrangements. The class for model garden corners should appeal particularly to garden clubs and garden sections of women's clubs, as would the class for floral arrangements.

POTTED PLANTS

In the potted plant class there's a first prize of ten dollars for the biggest aspidistra in the show, and one five dollars for the most freakish flower or horticultural oddity in a pot, and prizes ranging from two to one hundred dollars for single potted specimens and collections.

There is a class for juvenile displays of such things as miniature gardens and flower arrangements, although there are no cash awards for these. There are other classes for nurserymen and florists and one class features gardening hobby displays.

The deadline for making your entry is Friday, September 17 at 5 P.M., so send in as soon as possible for the premium list and entry blanks. They may be obtained by writing Harry Nelson, P. O. Box 25, Antioch.

This is something we can all take part in, and gives us a chance to show the rest of the county, as well as visitors from other places what we gardeners in Lafayette and Orinda can grow well. Any prize money will come in handy for new shrubs or bulbs or garden accessories.

INTERESTING TIP

The Harold V. Manors of Charles Hill Road gave me an interesting tip recently that may be of help to other gardeners living near wooded areas.

Their corn was just almost but not quite ripe when 'coons descended upon it and started making off with the ears at the rate of a dozen per night.

A neighbor, Mrs. Horace Brown, suggested that naphthalene flakes, which had successfully repelled deer in her garden, might also keep the 'coons away. The Manors acted immediately on this suggestion, using a pound of flakes distributed evenly along their five rows of corn and had no further losses.

Another gardening friend was complaining to me the other day about how all the persimmons seemed to be dropping from her tree, instead of remaining on to mature this fall. It's too late now to do anything to prevent it, but next year a good precautionary measure to stop most of the fruit drop, is to take a heavy knife and make a single cut around the fruit-bearing branches in June or July, in order to slow down the vegetative growth and sap-flow.

NOT INCLUDED

The list of daffodils or narcissus I gave last week did not include the polyanthus and poetaz, or bunch-flowered forms. Some of the polyanthus are familiarly known as China lilies, of which the paper-white is probably the best known.

In the poetaz group, which are very similar, though generally later blooming, there are many fine kinds, good both for fragrance, color, and vigorous growth. A favorite in my garden last spring was Laetitia. The broad grey leaves are rather short, making a fine foil for the bunches of soft yellow flowers. Everyone who saw it wanted to know the variety.

It would be good as a pot plant as well. Admiration bloomed a little earlier and was somewhat brighter in effect, having a soft yellow perianth and bright orange cup. They carry at least five flowers to a stem, and the flowers

Good Walnut Crop Predicted

A good walnut crop and a light pear crop were predicted this week for the San Ramon Valley by Philip Bancroft Jr., pear grower and a director of the walnut growers.

"The pear crop is generally light this year throughout the state, with strong cannery demand. The price is consequently high. Almost all pears from this district go to canneries with small eastern shipment," he explained.

Concerning the walnut prospects, he said, "We expect a somewhat larger walnut crop from this area this year. Some, however, were damaged by draught in non-irrigated areas."

HEAT CAUSES DAMAGE

Wayne Haas, co-op walnut growers association manager said that some heat damage but not much, was suffered by walnuts on the recent hot days.

"So far, we have found slight injury from heat," he said. "The crop looks about the same tonnage as last year, with sizes a little better in irrigated orchards. Prices aren't set, but the market is clean, with no carryover. The harvest may be very slightly late because of the generally cool summer, although it may still come on time."

OUTLOOK FAVORABLE

A favorable farm labor outlook for the fall harvest peak was indicated today by Edw. F. Hayes, chief of farm placement for state department of employment. On California farms now are about 420,000 workers, including 160,000 farmers and family workers, 100,000 year-around hands and 160,000 hired temporary workers of whom approximately 110,000 are local and 50,000 migrants.

It is estimated that between 30,000 and 40,000 workers are on the highways and in camps ready to meet the increasing labor demands between now and the peak of the season in September.

are larger than the ordinary China lily.

An older variety, but a good one, having the conventional white perianth and yellow cup, is Laurens Koster. This is a good one for naturalizing.

The Poet's narcissus have always had an especial appeal for me, and I wouldn't like to be without a few in the garden. To bloom well, they should be in a cool spot, as they come late, especially the double variety, and they do need a little extra watering, or you're liable to find that the buds fail to develop into flowers.

Lindsey Co. Still Buying Walnuts

Emma E. Lindsey notified the public last week that the rumor was false which led to the belief that, due to the death of James A. Lindsey, the Lindsey Nut Co. will not be in the market for walnuts.

Mrs. Lindsey was appointed administratrix of her husband's estate and has obtained an order of court to continue the Lindsey Nut Co. in operation. The company will be in the market for walnuts as in past years.

Flowers Planted At State Fair

This year's California State Fair, September 2 through 12, will not only be the most colorful ever held, but will also be the most "flowerful," with nearly a million and a quarter blooms planted about the fairgrounds.

Climaxing long months of preparation by Ira G. Shepard, supervising groundsman, and his hand-picked crew, many varieties of flowers, plants and shrubs are now being set out in beds, along walks, and in borders, nooks and corners around Fair buildings.

Developed by Shepard and his helpers in the four-acre nursery plot of the Fair grounds, hundreds of native, tropical, and semi-tropical plants and flowers will bring added color to every section.

Acalanes Hopefuls Will Hit Gridiron Tuesday for First Practice Session

The football season officially gets under way at Acalanes High School next Tuesday night when the lights go on for the initial practice of the year.

The coaching staff will meet with the players for the first time in uniform to mark the beginning of a rigorous training program prior to the opening varsity game here with Albany High on September 17th.

OPEN PRACTICE

Practice periods between August 31 and the opening of school will be held at night to enable players to hold down summer jobs.

Night playing is also less fatiguing and enables a candidate to get into top shape with less chance of injury.

CONDITIONING

Early schedules will devote a great percentage of time to conditioning work and basic fundamentals.

It is difficult to estimate the strength of this year's squad because 22 of the varsity squad are lost via graduation.

Indications are that more than a hundred candidates will try out.

Physical examinations have been under way the past week and equipment is being issued to experienced players prior to opening practice.

Fishers Enjoy 4000 Mile Vacation Trip

Howard and Margaret Fisher and daughter Leatrice have returned from a 4000 mile tour of the northwest that was started August 1. It took them to Salt Lake City, the Grand Tetons, Yellowstone, and Glacier Parks and into beautiful and interesting Waterton, Canada.

In Spokane they visited relatives and then went on into British Columbia to the town of Tenticton where Howard lived when he was 10 years old. Their journey next took them to the Grand Coulee Dam, and Crater Lake.

At Miranda, near Garberville they visited Mrs. Fisher's brother and family. A fitting climax to their days of sightseeing was the coming home by way of the Redwood Highway.

FROM THE SIDELINES

By Coach Erwin Mattson

The Olympic games are now a matter of history and while the Americans won by a lopsided score one of the disappointments was the inability of the Americans to win a single boxing title.

Reasons given are many and the experts are seeking an acceptable alibi.

Many factors enter into the situation. Foremost is the fact that Americans are probably more interested in the old K.O. punch than boxing.

EUROPEAN METHOD

Europeans place emphasis on fancy footwork and clever defense. Europeans know that the local lads prefer to slug it out and consequently are on guard and place additional emphasis on counter punching and forcing their opponents to miss.

As a result the Olympics are judged differently than we do with much more stress placed on defense while we consider protective tactics secondary.

Short bouts of four rounds give the defensive man a distinct advantage and as a result we often drop a decision while seeking the old knock out punch. Three light left jabs count as much as three stiff right hand punches.

HAIL THE OFFENSE

We invariably love an offense whether it be in boxing, football or baseball. The greatest defensive baseball player never acquires great fame or popularity unless he can come up with offensive power as well.

Another factor is that as soon as a boy shows any appreciable amount of ability in the good old U.S.A. he is pursued by the pros and usually succumbs to the old $ sign.

In other countries professional athletics is not so highly developed probably due to the inability of the people to go to pay performances.

YOUTH VS EXPERIENCE

Consequently a far greater percentage of their boxers stay in the amateur ranks. Most of our representatives are teen agers while many of the opponents have much more experience behind them.

In many respects we can learn much from the old world and chances are that we will change our views on many things from those of youth.

Wedding Held at Home Of Robert Williams

Robert A. Bayse and Aileen Marie Hill were married August 21 in a lovely ceremony at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Williams on Las Vegas Road. Rev. Fred Morrow joined the couple with the Williams serving as attendants.

The bride was given away by her father, Karl C. Hill of Tacoma, Washington, who with Mrs. Hill, drove to Orinda for the occasion.

The groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Bayse of Porterville, were also present.

The bride wore a white brocaded satin wedding gown, a coronet of seed pearls and a fingertip lace veil. She carried a cluster of green orchids upon a prayer book. The living room was beautifully decorated with ferns and white gladiolas. Following the ceremony was a reception to the bridal couple.

The newlyweds will live in Stockton where Bayse is employed as a civil engineer with the State Division of Water Resources. Mr. Bayse and Mr. Williams were fraternity brothers and old friends.

the art galleries there. They were much interested in the collection of masterpieces loaned to the Art Institute which had been found concealed in some salt mines in Germany.

One week was enough at Chicago, with the temperature up to 95 degrees so they turned towards Colorado. At Colorado Springs Ralph found the house he had lived in when a boy. His father had helped to develop the nearby town of Victor. It was at Victor that they had their most delicious meal cooked entirely by one woman in an old fashioned kitchen. The dining room had white ruffled curtains with pots of geraniums on the window sills and there was a sofa there still covered with black horse hair.

From Colorado they motored to Salt Lake City, spending several days sightseeing, thrilled always by the majesty of the Rocky Mountain scenes.

They went on to Lake Tahoe next, enjoying a week's rest from traveling, then continued on sightseeing through the historic Mother Lode country. In many of the old mining towns they learned of the plans for centennial celebrations and pageants.

A note of sadness was struck in going through the old cemetery at Columbia and noting how very young the men and women were, in just their early twenties, when they met their death through sickness, accident, or a shooting scrape.

Oak Springs Box Social Success

The next party the organization will hold will be a Halloween affair in October when complete plans and appointments will be arranged.

Bud Carroll's Stonewall Jackson Started Racing Here This Summer

By ADA M. MORGAN

One Robin may not make Spring nor a lone Swallow, Summer, but one outstanding race horse can mean fame and fortune to a shrewd owner.

Neither does the "champion" have to be a running racer. He can be a harness racer or a member of the so-called Quarter Horse racing fraternity, the short-distance equine sprinters. And, best of all, that champion could be foaled right here within shooting range.

I don't know of anyone around about here interested in breeding harness-horse racers. Nevertheless, I'll bet every horse-owner, horse-breeder, horse-trainer and hopeful got a thrill out of reading about the amateur driver and unproven trotter winning this year's grueling Hambletonian, the harness world's most prized contest.

ANYTHING CAN HAPPEN

It's the kind of any-thing-can-happen-in-America event we all enjoy. You know, the rags-to-riches, poor-boy-makes-good, Cinderella-and-her Prince-Charming-Romance happenings?

Never mind if the metaphors are a bit mixed!

Perhaps Harrison Hoyt, the owner of the Hambletonian winner, Demon Hanover, isn't too poor. But he is the first amateur driver to ever win that race. And many of the professionals have never made that grade. Besides that Hoyt had been training and driving only about four years. Some of his rivals had been born in the game.

Besides that, again, Hoyt's horse, while the son of the world-famous trotting champion Dean Hanover, was bought as a yearling with no indication he would be so outstanding.

BIG GAMBLE

In fact, Hoyt felt he was taking an immense gamble when he decided to risk the initial $200 to nominate his horse for the race. It is claimed that his win made him over $32,000.

Yes, even a one horse racing stable can be thrilling. Also, that kind may be the only one for the person without much money with which to indulge fancies.

And that's where, originally, the Quarter Horse type of racing came into its popularity. And one reason why it still is very popular.

The owner of a good short distance horse can have lots of fun with him. He can almost literally be a using horse during the week and a race horse on week-ends. And he may do much more than just pay for his keep!

ON THE ROAD

That's why, during the spring, summer and fall, you'll see short-distance running horses in trailers moving back and forth in this area. With the revived interest in this type of racing, and this type of horse, new and young breeders are experimenting and improving and building up their stables.

One Lafayette horseman who is particularly interested in Quarter Horses is Bud Carroll.

This summer he started racing his first Quarter Horse colt, Stonewall Jackson. This 26 months old stallion is from Red Sage (490) and out of a Carroll-owned mare called Jeanne. His bloodlines are reputed to trace back several times to Peter McCue, to Cold Deck and Tumblebug.

JUST STARTING

Good bloodlines. Fast and not ed ancestors. But, as Carroll says, the colt is still an unknown quality. He is just being started. He has been raced at 220 yards, but is still being trained and developed. How fast and how far he can run when he matures and develops is still to be discovered.

Carroll has another ex-race mare — a thoroughbred — whose foal this next year will be from his Quarter Horse stallion, Stonewall will also stand at public service next season.

We Live in a Horseman's Paradise . . .

Yes, the little one or two foal breeders of this area have as many potential possibilities of getting the right "nick" that produce champions as do far bigger and richer establishments. That is part of the fascination of the horse game; the never-ending chances held in plans, hopes and dreams.
